Terrible Tragedy in California—A Murders Slays Three of his Guards.

A terrible tragedy recently took place near Sacramento, which has intensely agitaled that portion of the State. On the 17th of July a man named Witsler was murdered while saleep in Sacramento City, and his house robbed of considerable money and jewelry. Circumstances pointed to one Wm. Watts as the murderer, who was followed to the Washoe mines and arrested on the 23d. He was conveyed to the Nictaus, in Sutler County, on the 25th, and that night started for Sacramento, hand-cuffed an in an open wason, under the charge of Win. O. Stoddard, recently District Attorney of Sutler County, George Armstrong, formerly from Texas, and celebrated as an Indian Ighter, and Timothy Wharton, Deputy Sheriff of Sutler County, but formerly of Ogden, Illinois. On arriving within a mile of Sacramento, at two A. M., on the 26th, the prisoner quietly stripped his hand-cuffs off, and with a pistol taken from Armstrong while saleep, fired on Wharton and mortally wounded him. He then fired on Stoddard, killing him instantly, next on Armstrong while saleep, fired on the prisoner, when he fied. The wounded man was able to walk to Sacramento, and give the alarm; but he died the same night. The county since has been overrun by armed men searching for the except desperado, but thus far without finding any traces of him. It is said that Armstrong was a very vigitant and watchful man, and the only reason given for his falling asleep is the fattigue resulting from his long, and unceasing charge of the prisoner while bringing him over the mountains.

Emigrant Family.

Terrible Tragedy in California-A Blur-

The Newburyport (Mass.) Herald says:

We noticed on Saturday the drowning of an Irish boy, some nine years old. It would appear hard enough to all human reason when a family is "forced from home and all its pleasures," by any circumstances, and especially by poverty, to spend life in a strange land, and among a strangle people, where not their race, religion, or habits of life are held in high esteem. But sometimes there are families that have a superabundance of hardships added to their lot, and this family, we understand, is one of these cases. The father is insane in one of the bospitals of the State; the mother has labored under extreme difficulties for the support of herself and two boys.

difficulties for the support of berself and two boys.

The elder, by accident fell, and is a cripple for life, though not wholly sut off from labor; and now the other, trusting to the treacherous bank of the canal, has been swept to a watery grave. On Saturday morning the place where he was drowned presented a scene that would have moved a heart of stone. The crippled brother was in the water feeling around with his hands and teet, if perchance the corpse might be recovered for Christian burial; and the poor, weeping mother stood upon the wharf, stretching her hands over the waters and calling for the lost child—the baby of her house. Occasionally she sent forth that terrible moan that many have heard at an Irish "wake," the saddest sound that mortal lips are capable of uttering. But not the efforts of the brother, nor the sad wall of the mother, recovered the dead. He sleeps on in the waters.

SINGULAR CASE IN A FRENCH COURT—A.
LAUGHTER-PROVOKING FUNERAL.—A most extraordinary case is now trying before one of the French courts. A certain M. C. died, leaving an express order to his lieirs that he should be buried in church, and a handsome sum paid to the priests on condition that "nobody should laugh while the service was going on." The intelligent defunct had observed that undertakers and priests permit themselves very often to take hilarious liberties with death, and he was determined that he should be buried with the gravity appropriate to the grave. Of course the odd request got noised abroad; all the village came to the funeral; and every body keeping an eye on every body else to see that nobody should so much as wink, the natural result followed.

A fat priest near the coffin was the first to break down; the choir boys, in the frailty of their youth, followed the fat priest; the minor canons, trying to stop the choir boys, or at least to make them "laugh out of the wrong side of their mouths," caught the contagion, and began to shake their sides; the deacons went off next into a full guffaw; and finally the cure himself was conquered and choked in his handkerchief. In short, a metrier interment was never witnessed. It was the joke of the sesson. But the heirs, not liking the sport, have refused to put the elergy for their rolicking services, and the matter is now in court, where it will doubtless cease to be a laughing matter to any body but the lawyers.

IMPROVEMENT OF NOTRE DAME, IN PARIS
The works at the Cathedral of Notre Dame, in Paris, are being carried on with great rapidity. Fresh statues have been added to those which formed the gallery of kings on the western front of the building, and in a short time not a single niche will be empty.
A large scaffolding has been erected on the south front of the transept, all of which is to be thoroughly repaired. The new steeple erected over the center of the Cathedral is now almost entirely cleared of its scaffolding, and the work in the interior of the Cathedral is going on so actively that there is every reason to expect that all will be finished in the present year.

Curious Developments Arrest of Two of the Robbers. From the London Star of a late date we make this extract:

The affair of the robbery of the two hundred and fifty thousand francs' worth of diamonds from Fontana, the jeweller of the Palais Boyal, about which so much has been said, has at length been brought te an end. It is known that on the evening of the 30th March last, a man and two females went into Fontana's shop, on pretext of purchasing an opera glass. While the man was examining the articles offered him, the women placed themselves near the window, in which, among other things, a quantity of diamonds were exposed for sale. Another man and two other females then came in, and asked to see some watches, the two women placing themselves make this extract: posed for sale. Another man and two other females then came in, and asked to see some watches, the two women placing themselves in such a position as to prevent the movements of the first two from being seen. After a while the three last comers went away without purchasing anything, and the first three, bastily paying for a longnette, which the man had selected, also hurried off and then Fontana discovered that his diamonds had disappeared. It is further known that the police, having obtained a description of the six persons in question, suspected one of the females to be a certain Rosine Nathan, living in the Rue des Quartre Vents; and that she, having learned they had inquired after her, went herself to the Prefecture, and was taken into custody. It is likewise known that a few days after a man was arrested in Lyons for having borrowed a pair of resies to weigh diamonds, and that he was recognized by Fontana as one of the two who had robbed him. Finally, a man named Pierce, and a female named Lawrence, were arrested at London for attemping a robbery similar to that on Fontana, and that person recognized them as two of the six who had been in his shop. It has not been possible to discover the other two females; and Pierce and Lawrence have been condemned at London.

The two in the hands of French justice—discover the other two females; and Pierce and Lawrence have been condemned at London.

The two in the hands of French justice—the woman Nathan and the man arrested at Lyons—were on Friday brought to trial before the Court of Assines. The man represented himself to be a Scotchman, of the name of Allen, but, from the investigations which have been made, it appears that he is a native of New York, and that, in addition to the name of Allen, be has been known by those of Edmunds, Brands and Stuart. Both Fontana and his nephew, who was in the shop with him, positively recognized him as the man who had called for a watch. The application at Lyons for the scales to weigh diamonds was likewise considered a most suspicious circumstance; and, besides, he had arrived in that city with a man and a female, who, on his arrest, mysteriously disappeared from the hotel at which they had put up. The man, it is not doubted, was Pierce; and, probably, the purpose for which the scales were wanted was to effect a division of the booty. None of the diamonds stolen were found in Allen's possession, but he had some securities for French rents, a bank note, a watch and some other things, which turned out to have been stolen at London; moreover, it was discovered that he had been condemned more than once in that city for theft. As to the female, who is a native of Alsace, but who for many years resided at New York, and has gone by the name of Filette, Leon, Mme, Georges, and the Widow Dollard, she was recognized by Fontana; indeed, he expressed the opinion it was she who took the diamonds. When arrested she was found to possess, secreted in her petticoats, a 500f. bank note, 200f. in gold and some jewelry, and she could not give a satisfactory account as to where they came from, nor why she had hid them. None of the diamonds, however, could be traced to her. The jury acquitted the woman but convicted Allen, who was condemned to ten years' hard labor.

A SUB-MARINE CARLE PROPOSED.—The Nantucket (Mass.) Inquirer says that Mr. S. C. Bishop proposes to connect the South-Shoal Light Ship with Sancoty Head-Light by a sub-marine cable, for the purpose of reporting vessels passing the Light-Ship, and for anticipating foreign steamers news; the whole plan (which was one of the original ideas connected with his perfecting the connection between Nantucket, Vineyard and the main-land) is perfectly a practicable one, and we learn from experienced pilots and others conversant with the matter, that there is not as much difficulty in making this connection as there was in crossing Muskeget Channel. The whole expense of the connection with Mr. Bishop's line at Nantucket, will not exceed $10,000, and can be done this fall, so that before winter sets in, all can be finished, and Nantucket Shoal Light-Boat be had in direct telegraphic connection with Boston.

The New Silver Discoverizes in Californians.

Boston.

The New Silver Discovenies in California.—The new silver discoveries in what is now called the Cozoe District, situated fifteen miles cout of Owen's Lake, and fifteen miles east of the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, are attracting very considerable attention. Scientific men in San Francisco, who have tested numerous samples of ore recently received, think it probable that another mineral district has been discovered, equaling in value the Washoe silver mines. Fine leads of gold-bearing quartz, copper and tin have also been found in the same region. A very decided emigration in that direction has commenced from the mining towns of California.

THE CLOTILDE, THE LATEST FASHION IN HATS.—The latest rage in the world of chopaeus is the little Clotide hat or "jockey." When the mammoth with their flapping brims were condemned by the voice of fashion, every body rejoiced. We don't want to see any more of these umbrells concerns. But the piquant little Clotide is a different affair altogether, with its rolled brim and dainty shape. As milliners say it "takes" most astonishingly. All the world wear it, and there are few faces which it does not become. In Paris it is worn under the title of Chopsens de Campagne. The mode is rather a la Louis Quinze. As worn by adady of rank there, it is described thus "The material is Leghorn, with plumes de caque of shaded black and purple, and a broad hand of violet velvet around the crown." It is not necessary to edge it with lace—that is rather a passes style. The ordinary round vall is worn with it, and forms an exceedingly graceful accompanient, where one is desired.

The other was of smaller size, with dark hair and whiskers. A rewerd of $500 is offered for the money. The payment of the notes, &c., has been stopped.

Captain Young succeeded in getting upon a raft, and was carried out to sea beyond sight of land, and for twenty-one hours was rolled and tossed about by the turbid waters of the Gulf. A great crowd of people had gathered on the bridge, nearly all of whom were precipitated into the canal. The bridge gave way in the center, without a moment's warning, and then a most terrible scene was presented. Screams tent the heavens, both from those in the struggle and those who gathered, as the news spread. Mothers, fathers, bothers, sisters, rushed to the scene of terror, wringing their hands and crying for their little ores. To add to the danger of drowning, there was peril from the falling timbers and from the general confusion and fright.

An Australian Gold Mine Discoulind by Chinese.—A Victoria journal states that one of the most auriferous regions of that colony owes its discovery to the Chinese. A party of these Oriental, to avoid the emigration tax, smuggled themselves on shore in Guichea Ray, in the province of South Australia, and crossing the borders into Victoria, marched toward the Grampians to the neighborhood of Mount Ararat. Here, while seeking for roots to eat, a party of them came upon the celebrated Chinaman's Hole, out of which no less than 3,800 ounces were taken within a few hours. In a few weeks after the announcement of this discovery, no less than 60,000 men were living in the new diggings. It is believed that this gold region stretches from Ararat to Avoca, a distance of sixty miles. The French members "riled up" at this suggestion, and heaped all sorts of abuse on the heads of the "dirty Britons." The English and Scotch were spoken of as miserable beggars, who had come to Canada without shoes on their feet. The Irish had been vomited forth from their own country. After the audience, mostly French, had been harangued for some time in a strain of pot-house eloquence, an amendment to retain the old name was lost, but the main motion it was impossible to cars, the pro-Mayor being obliged to vacate the chair. The meeting broke up in the utmost confusion. River News.
